REMEMBRANCE DAY

The annual Remembrance Day service at the Orpheum theatre on Friday forenoon last was very largely attended and most impressive.

The chair was occupied by Capt. J. Angus McDonald, while speakers included His Worship Mayor J. H. Farmer, J. E. Gillis, J. Whitehead and S. G. Bannan. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. E. Larke.

Speakers Gillis and Bannan delivered brief and appropriate addresses, drawing attention to the menacing influence of the Communist element in our communities, and asking for organization that might assist us, government in successfully combating same.

The Hillcrest male voice choir under the able leadership of Mr. T. Baynon and rendered suitable anthems, while Mr. Rhy, of Hillcrest, favored with a solo. The last post was sounded by Comrade J. Lowe.

The members of the B.E.S.L. and I.O.F.E., and citizens generally, desire to thank Mr. Rinaldi, proprietor, for free use of his theatre for the service.

Following the service, members of the I.O.F.E. and B.E.S.L. were accompanied by a large number of citizens to the cemeteries, where devotional exercises were carried out and wreaths, including a beautiful and large one from the Government of Alberta, were placed upon the graves. Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Brownies and Cubs were in attendance in uniform.

VISIT OF REV. IRWIN TO BLAIRMORE UNITED CHURCH

Some residents in the Pass will remember Rev. W. H. Irwin, B.A., who will be the guest preacher on Sunday evening next. Twenty years ago he was minister at Bellevue. At that time he gave active leadership in the promotion of those ideas which today are rapidly gaining acceptance for the building of a Christian Social Order. Many were not ready for the acceptance of his ideas twenty years ago, but today almost all thinking Christians are meeting radical and revolutionary ideas with counter-proposals along the lines followed by Mr. Irwin. He it was who drafted the much discussed Alberta Conference Resolution on Industrial Relations, which appeared even in Hansard, sponsored by Mr. Woodsworth. This fall he was one of the church's delegates to the general council, which met in Hamilton. The story of this great gathering will be brought to us on Sunday evening. Those who are at all eager to know where the United Church stands on today's problems are invited to attend.

SYLVIA SIDNEY SEEN IN LEADING FEMININE ROLE

Sylvia Sidney, who distinguished herself in films so auspiciously in "An American Tragedy" and "Ladies of the Big House," comes to the Orpheum theatre, starting tonight in her newest part, that of the confidence crook's girl friend in "The Miracle Man."

This is the part which brought immortal fame to Betty Compson in the original silent screen version of the same play in 1919. In that production, Thomas Meighan was the smooth crook, and Lon Chaney was "The Frog"—a fake paralytic.

In the new, modernized version with Miss Sidney, Chester Morris is the crook, and John Wray is the fairer. Others in the cast are Irving Pichel, Robert Coogan and Hobart Bosworth.

A mallard duck, banded A661,556, was recently shot by Mr. C. K. Williams, Twin Butte. Mr. Williams has been advised by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Bureau of Biological Survey, that the bird had been banded by F. H. Rose, Molese, Montana, January 31, 1930.

"MAGIC NIGHT" TUNEFUL

Tuneful music, wholesome fun and light-hearted gaiety are the principal ingredients of "Magic Night," the Jack Buchanan picture which comes to Cole's theatre Friday and Saturday. The picture has five songs, two of which are already in the hit class. Anna Neagle, England's reigning cinema queen, is the latest exemplification of the Cinderella motif in private film life. Only a few years ago, Miss Neagle was a choir girl in "Wake Up and Dream," in which Jack Buchanan was the star, and she is co-starring with him.

ROBBINS-FRANZ NUPTIALS

A quiet wedding took place at the Fletcher Creek United church on Thursday, when Hilda Marie Franz, youngest daughter of Mrs. Slevlak, of Coleman, became the bride of Hugh Francis, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robbins, who have for many years resided in Blairmore. The Rev. N. W. Whitmore officiated at the ceremony.

The bride chose for the occasion a becoming dress of canton crepe in ice blue. Miss May Farnow was the bride's only attendant, while Mr. George F. Kafoury acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, the young couple returned to Blairmore, where the wedding supper was served to members of the family and a few intimate friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will make their home in Blairmore.

GIRL GUIDES HAVE VISIT FROM COMMISSIONER

An interesting visitor to Pass points last week end, in the interest of the Girl Guides movement, was Miss Church, commissioner from Calgary.

On Friday, after attending the annual Remembrance Day services, the local Guides were inspected at the Scout headquarters by Miss Church,

THE ATTITUDE OF BRITAIN ON DISARMAMENT

London, Eng.—"We are endeavoring to transmute into practical form the overwhelming desire and passionate hope of the British people to make disarmament an accomplished fact."

To a world perplexed with the assertions of various powers concerning the vital question of disarmament, whose efforts towards that end have thus far met with small success, Sir John Simon made the foregoing statement in a speech in a crowded House of Commons.

It was significant that the British government chose, through its foreign secretary, to announce its attitude to the disarmament problem on the eve of Armistice Day. "A fair meeting of Germany's claims on the principle of equality," was favored by Sir John, who, pleaded that "the European states should join in a solemn affirmation that they will not in any circumstances attempt to resolve any present or future differences by resort to force."

Recognition of the right to parity in arms would mean, on Germany, along with others, the acceptance of this corresponding obligation of an assurance of peace. Sir John recognized the fact that the arms limitations imposed on Germany by the Treaty of Versailles were to be preliminary to a general limitation of armaments. It was not the desire of other countries to inflict permanent inferiority upon Germany but the hesitancy to change the Versailles Treaty restrictions was from anxiety as to the developments that might arise from the resulting situation, with the possible disturbing of the tranquility of Europe.

These further principles were laid down on behalf of the government of Great Britain: 1. That the limitation of Germany's armaments by special provisions in the Treaty of Versailles should be superseded; Any limitation of Germany's armaments should be expressed in a document that would at the same time limit the armaments of other nations.

2. The duration of such a disarmament convention should be the same for Germany as for other countries. 3. The British Government was willing in co-operation with other members of the disarmament conference to see the principle of equality in the prohibited classes of armaments (chemical warfare, etc.) was embodied in the new document.

Railway Co-Operation

C.N.R. President Believes Two Systems Should Be Under Separate Management

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's two major railway systems should co-operate to avoid wasteful expenditures but remain under separate management, S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, to the senate committee reviewing railway legislation, proposed recently.

The National president sent the following telegram to Senator George P. Graham, chairman of the committee: "Canadian National has no particular further representations to make as situation stands at present but desires to reiterate our conviction that the two systems should be under separate management but in active co-operation with a view to avoidance of any wasteful expenditures and un-sound competition."

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, will appear before the committee next week to make representations. Officials of the Labor unions also will appear next week but Mr. Hungerford's telegram indicated the Canadian National was not seeking to make representations.

Banana Crop Damaged

Jamaica Hurricane Causes Loss Of Three Million Dollars

Kingston, Jamaica.—Fully 50 per cent of the banana cultivations on this island were wiped out by a terrific storm which struck West Jamaica.

The centre of the storm hit Point Negril, the western extremity of the island, and the wind registered 75 miles an hour. The damage was estimated at $3,000,000. There was no loss of life.

Banker Fails Bandit

Vancouver Hold-Up Is Frustrated By Action Of Bank Manager

Vancouver, B.C.—Less than two hours after a lone gunman attempted to hold up the sixteenth Avenue and Oak Street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, police arrested a suspect who is being held for questioning. The man was arrested at his home by officers, who stated that on searching his room they found a revolver from which a bullet had been fired recently.

Quick thinking and prompt action by E. Devereaux, manager of the branch, foiled the holdup attempt and demonstrated again that the manager was no easy mark for "stick ups." Shortly before noon a man entered the bank carrying a satchel. Going to Devereaux's desk he pointed a gun at the manager. Devereaux immediately dropped behind the counter and reached for his own gun. The bandit fired one shot and fled in a car, which was recovered by police 20 minutes later, and discovered to have been stolen from H. Wright.

On July 28 last two men entered the bank and attempted to hold up Devereaux. The manager rushed into his office and fired several shots through the window to attract attention, frightening the bandits, who fled in a waiting car.

New Rules Issued

Conditions Under Which Civil Servants May Hold Municipal Offices

Ottawa, Ont.—The government has issued a list of conditions under which civil servants may hold municipal offices. The order applies throughout Canada. In all cases permission must be secured from Ottawa before a civil servant contests a municipal election. If that post he seeks carries a salary or remuneration of $500 or less he may hold it without severing his connection with the government.

If the salary is above that figure, he must leave of absence without pay, devoting his full time to the municipal office.

Caught In Flood Of Oil

Two Men Drowned In Peculiar Accident At Montreal

Montreal, East, Que.—Caught in a flood of fuel oil, Placide Bourgeois, 45, and another man were drowned at the plant of the Imperial Oil Company when a huge tank containing 30,000 barrels of fuel oil burst.

The men were digging nearby, standing in an excavation several feet deep. The gush of oil from the broken tank overwhelmed them and both drowned before help arrived. Details as to how the tank broke were not immediately available, but it was stated there was no explosion of any kind. One body was recovered.

Build More Elevators

Vancouver Only Port In The World To Increase Elevator Capacity

Vancouver, B.C.—By December 15, Vancouver's grain elevator capacity will be approximately 1,600,000 bushels greater than at present, this being the only port in the world today where additional elevator construction is being installed.

Three additions to grain elevators are nearing completion, two of which are expected to be finished by December 1. Thus, Vancouver's present capacity of 16,205,000 bushels will be increased to 17,830,000 bushels.

No Request For Relief

Ottawa, Ont.—The Saskatchewan Government has made no application to the Department of Labor for relief of farmers in the dried-out areas of the province. Hon. W. A. Gordon said in the House of Commons. He was replying to a question asked by Dr. Thomas Donnelly, Liberal, Willow Bunch.

To Market Canadian Products

Geese Tangle Wire Lines

Winnipeg, Man.—Four Manitoba towns—Holland, Glenboro, Baldur, and Cypress River—were without electric power for several hours following an aerial attack by a flock of geese on transmission lines. The birds caused a short-circuit, but only three of them were killed.

Labor Statistics

671,000 Canadians Were Unemployed On June 1st

Ottawa, Ont.—On June 1, 1931, the date of the Dominion-wide census, Canada's unemployed total stood at 671,000, according to a return tabled by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the House of Commons. The wage-earners numbered 2,664,879, of whom 51.39 per cent were at work.

The number of "unemployed in the ordinary meaning of the term" was 392,806, or 15.32 of all wage-earners, since these persons recorded themselves to have "no job." Others were laid off temporarily, some were out of work through sickness, accidents and lock-outs.

Of the wage-earners, 2,017,606 were males, and 547,273 females. Of the former, 422,994 were not at work, and of the latter, 48,674.

MAJORITY FOR ROOSEVELT MAY PROVE RECORD

Washington.—Backgrounds of the election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt as United States president by what promises to be the greatest electoral majority in the history of the country, Democratic supremacy in the next House of Representatives passed the vote-counting mark as completion of three-to-one margin.

Meantime the party figures in the senate approached the border of a two-to-one margin.

Some 70 house seats remained to be heard from, however.

It looked as though Democratic majorities would be increased instead of decreased, but there was nothing finally conclusive as to the final line-up.

From Connecticut to the state of Washington, the mighty rush of Democratic ballots that bore the New York Governor to presidency over Herbert Hoover, took heavy and hourly growing toll of "G.O.P." legislators, some of them veterans of many years at the capital.

Outstanding among the latest Republican old guard victims were the veteran Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, and Senator Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada. Their victorious Democratic adversaries were Homer T. Bone, and Patrick A. McCarran.

Other familiar figures who fell before the Democratic hurricane were Read Smoot of Utah, dean of the senate, where he has served for 30 years; George H. Moses for New Hampshire, president pro tem; James E. Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, administration stalwart.

The lineup for the short session of the present congress, which expires March 4, was in doubt, with the Democrats holding 48 seats, the Republicans 46, and leading in one.

HUNGER LEADER

Wal Hanington, the militant organizer of the London "hunger march" which recently resulted in serious rioting in the British Capital, Hanington has been arrested, charged with "inciting to mutiny" and he will probably receive a stiff sentence.

Still For Prohibition

Andrew Volstead Has Not Changed His Viewpoint

St. Paul, Minn.—Andrew J. Volstead said he was still convinced prohibition is the thing for the United States.

Asked to comment on gains made by the wets in the election, he replied: "I have seen too many elections to have national sentiment mean anything to me. I am still for prohibition." He refused to amplify.

Volstead, the author of the dry act, pertaining his name, is legal adviser to the district prohibition administrator here.

Free State Will Not Pay Land Annuities

Government Not Giving In To Britain Says De Valera

Dublin, Irish Free State.—Eamon de Valera, president of the council of the Irish Free State, told members of the Flanna Fail party, of which he is a member, that "so long as this government is concerned the land annuities will never be paid."

"The new duties against Irish produce we had expected. We knew that the United Kingdom would attempt to bully and coerce us and if we give in she will always do so," he said.

Balloon Is Released

Calgary, Alberta.—Fifth to be released since September, a large meteorological balloon went soaring skywards from the municipal airport here to record pressure and temperature in the stratosphere, eight to 10 miles above the ground. The balloon was released by C. H. Bromley, representative of the Dominion Meteorological Bureau here.

BRITISH MARQUESS MAY CONQUER EVEREST BY AIR

LORD CYNEDELE - MT. EVEREST - MAHARAJAH OF NEPAL

With the chief object of promoting British prestige—particularly in India—the Marquess of Douglas and Clyde, British aviation enthusiast and Member of Parliament, with a few chosen companions, will take off from Northern Bengal sometime within the next few months, in an attempt to fly over the summit of Mount Everest, giant of the Himalayas. Clyde is being supported in his perilous venture by the British Air Ministry and India Office; and the Maharajah of Nepal, in whose territory the mountain is situated, has given permission for the flight. Two planes will make the attempt. One will photograph the other, and when it crosses the summit of Everest, this is to provide authentic proof that the feat has actually been accomplished.

Wife Of Stalin Is Dead

Most Powerful Figure In Soviet Russia Is Bereaved

Moscow, Russia.—Nadya Allilueva, wife of Joseph Stalin, most powerful figure in all Soviet Russia, but herself a retiring woman who lived plainly, is dead.

The Tass agency, official Soviet news organization, announced her death but gave no details.

She was 30 years old. Only a few months ago she had completed a three-year course at the All-Union Industrial Academy which qualified her as an expert in the production of artificial silk and made her eligible to a high administrative-technical post in an important section of the Soviet textile industry.

In addition to Stalin, their two children—a boy of 12 and a girl of seven—survive her. There also is a stepchild, Stalin's son by a previous marriage, who is 23.

Soldiers On Guard

Militia Men Stationed At Federal Penitentiaries In West

Winnipeg, Man.—Steel-helmeted militia men, with full field equipment and machine guns, are stationed at federal penitentiaries in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Twenty-five men were in each detachment to leave Winnipeg fully equipped and supplied with a plentiful quantity of ammunition. The troops were dispatched to Prince Albert carried a truck load of ammunition, while both detachments had machine guns.

There are nearly 600 convicts at Prince Albert, while those housed at Stony Mountain total several hundred, probably near the thousand mark.

Table Supplementary Estimates In House

Total Of $1,534,957 Added For Present Year

Ottawa, Ont.—Further supplementary estimates for the present fiscal year, totalling $1,534,957, were tabled in the House of Commons by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance.

The largest single item in the list is an appropriation of $975,000, a sum which will be required for unemployment relief under the administration of the Department of Pensions and National Health.

BRITAIN READY TO AID CAUSE OF WORLD PEACE

London, Eng.—Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and leader of the Conservatives in the House of Commons, told guests at the Lord Mayor's banquet, Great Britain could make no further step toward disarmament without similar moves on the part of other nations.

Mr. Baldwin, speaking in place of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald who was absent on doctor's orders, declared: "The time has come to an end when Britain can proceed with unilateral disarmament."

He added, however, that the United Kingdom was ready at any time to join other nations in plans which might reduce armaments and bring assurance of world peace.

The Conservative leader pleaded for settlement of the war debt problem. "It is essential to the world that ratification of the Lausanne settlement on reparations should now become possible and the work begun there should be completed," he said.

He added he wished the success which had attended the Lausanne parity had been reflected in the world disarmament conference, but reminded his hearers that in accordance with the terms of the "gentlemen's agreement," fulfillment of the accords reached at Lausanne depends on a more lenient debt settlement between creditor and debtor nations.

He reiterated that Great Britain was resolved to stand by her obligations undertaken under the covenant of the League of Nations, and would continue to co-operate with the League in every respect.

From disarmament and war debts, Mr. Baldwin turned to affairs within the empire, to prospects of increased prosperity in empire countries as a result of the Ottawa economic conference.

Of that conference he said: "Patience, forbearance, sympathy and a sense of other peoples' requirements, we believe, laid the foundations leading to increased trade between us by lowering economic barriers."

WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE AT A LOWER FIGURE

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's total wheat crop is now estimated at 35,800,000 bushels less than it was in September, by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In a report released Thursday afternoon, November 10, the total wheat crop for the entire Dominion was placed at 431,200,000 bushels compared with September estimate of 467,000,000. Most of the decrease is in the prairie provinces where Thursday's estimate was 411,000,000, and in the September estimate 446,000,000.

Not only are the estimates for wheat down but for other grains as well. In the prairie provinces the estimate for oats is now placed at 247,300,000 bushels. In September it was estimated at 274,700,000 bushels.

"The obvious explanation for the reduction," the report states, "lies in the impossibility of estimating the effects of drought and other depressing influences on yield until actual threshing operations were in progress."

The heavy marketings up to date may indicate that the correspondents on whose returns the estimate is based, have been unduly pessimistic, the report explains.

The crop report Thursday was eagerly awaited by western members of the House of Commons. "It may help the price of wheat some," one of them suggested.

For Sound Money

Bennett Scores Propounders Of New Monetary System

Toronto, Ont.—The credit of Canada has been preserved to an extent that it stands pre-eminent among the nations of the world. From Prime Minister R. B. Bennett came this declaration as he addressed delegates to the Ontario Monetary Association annual banquet.

To the propounders of a new monetary system for the use of printing presses to turn out more dollar bills, Premier Bennett issued a rebuke. "If we do it we destroy this country, and its credit, and once you destroy the appetite for more becomes insatiable. It became so insatiable in Germany that it took about 1,000,000 Marks to post a letter."

Doubts Conference Benefits

Hon. W. R. Motherwell Says Agreement Injures Trade

Ottawa, Ont.—"If the 1930 Imperial Conference was humbug, the last Imperial Conference was a double-edged, twice-distilled quinquessence of humbug," declared Hon. W. R. Motherwell (Lib., Melville), in the House of Commons. He continued debate on second reading of the bill to ratify the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement.

He was opposed to the agreement, said the former minister of agriculture, for several reasons. He objected to the government's methods of giving preferences by raising tariffs against the rest of the world. Its effect would be to injure Canada's trade.

The agreement had been arrived at under the "threat" of an imposition of tariffs by the United Kingdom on November 15, said Mr. Motherwell.

Mr. Hon. Stanley Baldwin had given Canadian wheat a preference with one hand and taken it away with the other, when he insisted that the wheat be sold at world prices, Mr. Motherwell said. The only way to secure a preference was by way of a quota.

He had looked for some remedial action on the part of the British government to counteract the effect of routing Canadian grain by Canadian ports in order to obtain the preference. He could not believe that the government would knowingly interfere with a long-established trade route, via Buffalo and New York.

It would cost twice as much to convey the wheat by way of Halifax and Saint John, in the increased costs of freight and storage. While he was prepared to patronize Canadian ports, he did not wish to do so at a price of four or five cents extra in the way of cost.

Mr. Motherwell felt that the government's first act at the conference should have been to adjust the exchange situation. If this could not be achieved among members of the same family, how did the Prime Minister expect to achieve it at an international conference among foreigners?

She was lying on her back in the shadowy wood whether they had ridden out to lunch that day, staying up at the bit of blue sky overhead which showed between the interlacing branches of the trees. The remainder of the party were grouped around her, reclining in various attitudes of a "dois for niente" nature, while from a little distance away, where the horses were picketed in charge of a groom, came the drowsy, rhythmic sound of the munching of corn, punctuated by an occasional stamp of an impatient hoof.

"Yes, it's been good," agreed Lady Anne. "I shall never settle down again properly as a dowager at the Dower House!" And she laughed gleefully.

To her, it had been almost like a return to the days of her youth, for "her four children," she called them—had insisted on her sharing in all their active pursuits, and Lady Anne, who in her girlhood and early married life had been a first-class horsewoman and a magnificent swimmer, had consented "for amusement," Elaine pulled herself lazily up into a sitting posture and glanced towards the crimson glow of western sun where it struck athwart the tall trunks of the trees.

"You'll none of you live to go back to England, instead, you'll be dying of pneumonia and a few other complaints—if we don't get a move on soon," he observed. "It's almost sunset, and after that it grows abominably chilly in this eastern paradise of Jean's. Besides, I fancy it's going to blow great gusts before long."

It was true. Already a little chill whisper of wind was shaking the tops of the trees, and before the party was fairly moved and away, the whisper had changed to a shrill whistling, heralding the big wave which drove along behind the innocent seeming breeze which at first had barely rocked the topmost branches.

It was a longish ride back to Beirnefeld, and the sun had dipped below the horizon in a sullen splendour of purple and red before the shoulder of the hill, upon the further side of which the castle stood, came into sight. Now and again the moon peered out between the racing, wind-driven clouds, clearly lining the bold black curve of the hill against a background of lowering sky.

Jean and Blaise were riding abreast, a little in advance of the rest, engrossed by the difficulties of carrying on an animated conversation in a high wind. As they swung round the bend in the road which brought the hill's great shoulder into view, Jean threw back her head and stared at the sky above it with a puzzled frown on her face.

"Why... how queer!" she exclaimed. "The sun set nearly half an hour ago and yet there's still quite a brilliant red glow in the sky. Look, Blaise—just above where Beirnefeld stands!"

Blaise glanced up casually in the direction indicated, then suddenly reined in his horse and half-rode in the stirrups, staring at the red glow deepening in the sky ahead.

"That's no sunset!" he exclaimed sharply. "It's—Great heavens, Jean! Beirnefeld is on fire!"

Even as he spoke a tongue of flame, mocking the dull glow with its gleaming blaze, shot up like a thin red knife into the sky and sank again.

A shout came from behind. The others had seen it, also, and recognized its deadly import. The next moment the clatter of galloping hoofs echoed along the road as the whole party urged their horses on towards home as fast as they could cover the ground.

Soon they struck off from the road, taking a bridge path which slanted through the woods clothing the base of the hill, and as they emerged on to the broad plateau where Beirnefeld had stood sentinel through wind and weather for so many years, the whole extent of the catastrophe was revealed.

By this time the angry glow in the sky had turned dusk into day, while from the doors and windows of the castle fire vomited forth as from a furnace—upward in long, stuous tongues of flame, licking the blackened walls, downward in spangled showers of sparks that drifted towards the earth like flights of golden butterflies.

Little groups of men and women, helpless as ants to stay the fire, rushed futilely hither and thither with hosepipe and engine, while on the smooth sward which fronted the castle lay piled enormous quantities of household stuff, a medley of fire old furniture, torn tapestry wreathed from its place against the walls, pictures, mirrors—anything and everything that could be dragged out into the open by eager hands and willing arms.

The major-domo, an elderly, grey-haired man who had been born and reared upon the estate and who had taken service with Glyn Peterson on the day when he had first brought Jacqueline, a bride, to Beirnefeld, caught sight of the riding-party returned and came hurrying to Jean's side.

The tears were running down his wrinkled face as he recounted the discovery of the fire, which must have started either just before or during the servants' dinner-hour, when few people, of course, were about the castle, and which had obtained a firm hold before it was detected.

The household staff, practised to a limited extent—a fire drill had been held once a month in Peterson's time—had done their best to cope with the flames, but vainly. The high wind which had arisen had thwarted their utmost efforts, and finally giving up all hope of saving the interior from being gutted, they had confined themselves to rescuing such valuables as could be easily removed.

There was the usual mystery as to how the fire had originated, and several circulated amongst the chattering throng which hurried hither and thither, momentarily augmented by the peasants who, at night of the castle in flames, had come trooping up the hill from the village below.

The most likely story, and the one to which Blaise inclined to give most credence, was that the child of a woman who worked daily at the castle, escaping from its mother's care and launched on an independent voyage of discovery through the rooms, had knocked over a burning lamp. Then, terrified at the immediate consequences—the sudden flaring of some ancient tapestry, dry as tinder with the summer heat, near which the lamp had fallen—he had bolted away, out of the castle and so home, too scared to tell anyone of his accident.

But, as Jean commented mournfully, what did it matter how it happened? Except from the prosaic viewpoint of the fire insurance company, who would probably desire to know all kinds of details that it was impossible to supply!

For her, nothing mattered except that Beirnefeld, her home from childhood and the place where she and Blaise had proposed to spend a great part of their married life, was a furnace of flames.

It was a splendid but very terrible sight. The great grey walls of the castle stood four-square against the sky, charred and blackened but defiantly impervious to the flames that were licking covetously against the solid stone which fashioned them. Sentinel to the very end, they reared themselves unvanquished and undimmed still, though all that they had sheltered through their centuries of watch and ward lay consumed within their very heart.

Jean, standing beside Blaise and watching the upward-tossing flames and the crimson banners of the lowering heavens, spoke suddenly:

"And the sky as red as blood above it! Blaise, the last of Keturah Stanley's prophecies has come true!"

An hour later help was forthcoming from the distant town to which a messenger had been dispatched post-haste as soon as it was realized that the household staff, even with the assistance from the village, was hopelessly inadequate to cope with a fire of such magnitude. But it was already too late to accomplish very much in the way of salvage. All that remained possible was to quench that inferno of fire as soon as might be and so, perhaps, save some of the outbuildings.

Hour after hour through the night, human endeavour fought with the flames—subduing them again and again only to find them kindling into fresh life at the gusty bidding of the wind, leaping redly from the lambent heart of the conflagration, which glowed and pulsed and heaved like some living monster intent upon destruction.

It was not until dawn was breaking, that, with the dying down of the wind, the flickering crimson light, an hour later, when the fire had been faded finally from the sky; and a half at last extinguished, the village folk, gathered about the scene of the catastrophe, had dispersed to their homes.

Quick RELIEF from pain

A lot of things can cause a headache or other pain, but there is one thing that will always give you relief! Just take a tablet or two of Aspirin. Your suffering ceases. Relief comes instantly, regardless of what may have been making your head throb with pain.

Aspirin is harmless—cannot depress the heart. So there's no use waiting for a headache to "pass off." It is useless to endure pain of any kind when you can get Aspirin. It is a blessing to women who suffer regular systemic pain; to men who must work in jobs of eye-strain, fatigue or nervousness.

Learn its quick relief for colds; for neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Be sure to get Aspirin—and not a substitute. All druggists sell Aspirin tablets. "Aspirin" is a trade-mark registered in Canada.

and Claire, started for the Inn of the Green Dragon, whither the landlady had hurried on ahead to prepare temporary quarters for the new household company from the castle. But Jean and Blaise still lingered by the deserted ruins loth to say farewell to the place that had meant so much to them.

Beneath the misty azure of the summer morning sky, framed by little vagrant zephyrs—rearguard of the hurricane which had passed—stood all that remained of Beirnefeld—blackened, naked walls, stark against that tender blue, brooding above the mass of cooling wreckage.

Jean's mouth quivered a little as her glance took in the scene of utter desolation.

"My House of Dreams," she whispered brokenly.

She was silent a few moments, her eyes embracing all that had once been seen as a scene which held both farewell and retrospect. And amidst more—some vision of the future. In the dawn-light peering the sky above she recognized the eternal promise of Him Who "commanded the light to shine out of darkness."

"Her House of Dreams! The inner meaning of the song had grown suddenly clear to her.

When she turned again to Blaise, her expression was serene and tranquil. Touched with regret perhaps, but bravely confident.

"I don't think it matters, Blaise," she said simply. "Beirnefeld was only a symbol, after all. My House of Dreams—Come-True isn't built of stones and mortar. No one's. It's just—where love is."

Answer Is "We Can"

County In Oregon Helping To Solve Relief Problem

Through the use of a portable cannery in Josephine County, Oregon, 100,000 containers of fruit and vegetables were filled either for immediate relief distribution or storage against future need. Now the cannery is again making the rounds, this time to put up meats of various kinds for the same purpose. So, to the question as to whether Josephine County can care for its unfortunate during the winter, the answer seems to be, "We can."

Why suffer needlessly! Douglas' Egyptian Liniment brings quick, sure relief to aching feet, stiff joints and aches. Relieves inflammation. Removes profuse flesh.

The Island Of Bali
Motion Picture Operators Made Costume Pictures Of Natives

Bali, Bali—The people here in general are considerably excited over the place being made for the island of Bali in the motion picture world. The arrival of another independent film group from New York has stirred up a lot of interest. One thing is sure, it is going to cost more than now on to make native costume pictures of the lovely girls who are making this island famous all over the world.

At last the women of Bali are becoming conscious of the fact that their beauty is of great value when reflected upon the silver screen. It might be of interest to state that the beauty of the Balinese women and girls has long been appreciated throughout Malaysia. They are, in fact, "glorious, upstanding creatures with great masses of blue-black hair, faint colour of nose diffusing itself through their skins of brown stain. They bear themselves with a quiet dignity and lissome grace."

A striking bit of decoration is added by the flame-coloured flowers they wear in their dusky hair. Their eyes, instead of being oblique, as might be expected, are set straight in the head. It is admitted here that the chief charm in these island belles is found, not in their faces, but in their figures, which are slender and willowy.

Polygamy, grown expensive, is decreasing here. Also many wives mean many troubles. Twenty-five wives formerly constituted a large harem, although some of the high rulers possessed several hundred.

Despite stories to the contrary, suttee—the burning of widows—has been discontinued in Bali. Formerly a young girl who married an elderly man incurred this risk of meeting an untimely and extremely unpleasant end. Nevertheless, some women who loved their husbands are still likely to join his dead body on the funeral pyre.

As few ships from Europe or America stop here the islanders are looking forward to the visit of the Cunard liner "Carinthia," which will stop here next March, on her voyage around the world via the Southern Hemisphere. The people are excited, because a number of camera men will disembark.

Because of the failure of ships to call, the people are free from the diseases brought by white men to many of the South Sea Islanders. The population of Bali is generally healthy and constantly increasing. There are nearly a million natives in Bali and now the great majority of them are growing picture-minded.
